

The Blessed Life

I declare that my hands have been blessed by God; therefore I am empowered to be wealthy, not for my own gain, but so I can establish God's Kingdom on the Earth! I declare that Jesus was impoverished so that I could experience the abundance of Eden in every area of my life, including in my finances. Regardless of what the world says, the Word says that God delights and takes pleasure in my prosperity. By faith, I declare that I am, at this very moment, blessed and that the blessing on my life produces abundance and total-life prosperity, which is for service—to serve God and others. I declare that out of a pure heart and with right motives that I will finance Kingdom endeavors and lend to many nations. Instead of seeking to be blessed, I will seek to be a blessing to others. Furthermore, I will live an obedient life because obedience is the key to prospering and living godly. I will be where God wants me to be and attentive unto His voice so I can meet the needs of others as He directs me. I declare that I have sufficiency in all things. My cup is running over right now. I am a well-spring of blessing for everyone connected to me. Without a doubt, I am in my wealthy place and I make no apologies for the blessings of God on my life. I'm living the blessed life and I will continue to live this life until Jesus returns! In Jesus' name!

Scripture References: Deuteronomy 8:18; Deuteronomy 28; Psalm 35:27; Genesis 12:1-3; Proverbs 10:22