

Restoration

Father, in the name of Jesus, I declare that this is my season of restoration. Your Word says if the thief is found, he must restore sevenfold even if he has to sell everything in his house. Satan, you are the thief. You have been found and I declare in the name of Jesus that you will steal no more. You take your hands off my family and my finances. I bind you in the name of Jesus and this day, I require a sevenfold recompense according to the Word of God for the injustices that my family and I have suffered. I command you to restore everything you have stolen from me and my family. My God is a God of justice and He has promised to reward me faithfully for my suffering. From this day forward I will suffer no more! I declare the favour of God rests upon me and that the Holy Spirit is moving on my behalf to execute vengeance and recompense. It is God's will that the righteous be recompensed in the Earth and I declare this is my day of recompense.

Scripture References: Proverbs 6:30-32; Proverbs 11:31; Isaiah 61, The Amplified Bible